

Workaholics Anonymous World Service Organization

Intellectual Property Policies

Copyrights

The World Service Organization of Workaholics Anonymous copyrights all of its written literature, visual images and audio materials, and holds these copyrights in trust for the Workaholics Anonymous fellowship. It does so in order that the Workaholics Anonymous literature and spoken content in audio materials may not be altered in content, form or meaning.

Trademarks and Logos

The World Service Organization of Workaholics Anonymous has submitted a registration for its trademark and retains the ownership of its logos and artwork specific to its literature. These are depicted here:

WORKAHOLICS ANONYMOUS™

The guidelines for using copyrighted materials, trademarks, logos and artwork are based partly on legal considerations and partly on the nature of Workaholics Anonymous. Use of the material and marks on or with goods or services, or on printed material, or with electronic media that are not generated or published by the World Service Organization of Workaholics Anonymous, or have not been approved by the WSO, infringes on and dilutes WA's rights and may impair WA's messages, efforts, purposes and meaning. The result may be harm to what WA is, if its marks and materials are associated with a variety of goods, products, services or messages that are not actually a part of WA, and are not consistent with the purposes of the WA fellowship. Unlawful or unpermitted use may cause the marks or literature to lose their meaning and significance as symbols or expressions of Workaholics Anonymous.

Licensing Policy

Generally, the World Service Organization limits licenses for the translation, publication and distribution of WA literature, and the use of its trademarks, logos and artwork by granting permission to Registered WA Groups in the United States and other countries and to organized literature committees around the world. The “Translation Guidelines for WA Literature”, “Web Site Development Guidelines”, and “WAWSO Board and Corporate Policies for Permission to Use The Workaholics Anonymous Logo, Trademark and Artwork” provide guidance. Typically, an application will be made. That application will be reviewed by the Executive Committee with advice sought from the Chairman of the Literature Committee. Approvals, approvals with conditions, or denials will be determined on a case by case basis in accordance with the WSO Guidelines and Policies.

Reprint Policy

Permission to reprint some portions of WA literature differs from the Licensing Policy. Our Reprint Policy permits Registered WA Groups to exactly quote a phrase, sentence or brief paragraph excerpted from WA literature such as the Book of Recovery or the Book of Discovery, or our copyrighted pamphlets, as well as The Twelve Steps of Workaholics Anonymous, the W.A. Tools of Recovery, The Twelve Traditions of Workaholics Anonymous, The Twenty Questions, and The Promises of Workaholics Anonymous, and other parts of our literature without having to seek permission and without having to be granted specific permission to do so; provided the writing is accompanied by a credit line that reads “Reprinted from {name of publication, page number, the year and the Printing, if applicable}, with the permission of Workaholics Anonymous World Services Organization. Copyrighted material may not be reproduced in any form without the written permission of the WAWSO.” Entities which are not a Registered WA Group and individuals not associated with or representing such a Group may not reprint WA copyrighted materials without being granted prior approval in writing pursuant to a written request. All applicants, including WA Registered Groups, seeking permission to reproduce any WA copyrighted materials as a part of a static web page or site, must first seek permission to do so in writing. The “Electronic Publishing Policies” provide guidance. Requests for policy interpretation and to reprint WAWSO materials may be made to wso@workaholics-anonymous.org.